

Qwiki

Qwiki is a simple-to-use website that provides an “information experience.” Just search for a topic, and then sit back and relax as Qwiki puts together a multimedia presentation, complete with pictures, videos, and voice-over.

To use Qwiki:

1. Go to www.Qwiki.com.
2. Enter a topic in the search window, or
3. Click the provided links to see the day’s news summary or top stories.
4. Watch and listen to the multimedia “information experience.”
5. Use the provided tools at the bottom of the screen to pause, rewind, change volume, show/hide subtitles, and view full screen.
6. For extended information, choose from the list of related topics at the bottom of the page.

Exploring the Content:

1. Click the Contents tab.
 2. You will see the transcript of the report along with the included photos and videos.
 3. Click any photo or video to see the original source of the information.
- (Tip, compliments of Tammy's Tech Tips for Teachers)